"...Their virtuosity is a given, but musicianship goes much more deeply, in feeling, sensitivity and concentration. It is difficult to think these performances will be surpassed..."

Michael Wilkinson, MusicWeb International

The East-West Chamber Orchestra translates the poignant emotions expressed by the composer with infinite respect, and perhaps goes a step further than the Kremerata Baltica and Gidon Kremer in conveying this dramatic and touching message."

– Crescendo Magazine

...Rostislav Krimer has a fine instinct for both works, finding nuances and idiomatic expressive shades that are as persuasive in their way as the marginally more solid Kremerata Baltica.

– Gramophone

"Unique sound, phrase, brilliant forte and dazzled, almost as a breath, pianissimo, perfect ensemble..."

WE BUILD BRIDGES.

The Orchestra-For-Peace East-West Chamber Orchestra brings together outstanding performers in their own right – winners of the most prestigious competitions worldwide, including the Tchaikovsky, ARD, Queen Elisabeth, Long-Thibaud, Paganini and concertmasters and leaders of renowned orchestras, who hold in their hands most rare instruments including Stradivari, Guarneri-del-Gesu, Guadagnini and Goffriller. This rare combination gives the East-West Chamber Orchestra its distinguished sound.

Residing in the Beethoven-City Bonn in Germany it was founded by Rostislav Krimer in 2015 and was until 2022 an orchestra-in-residence of the Yuri Bashmet International Music Festival. The Orchestra understands itself as an ambassador for transnational collaboration, peace and cultural interaction across Europe and beyond. Since 2023 it is going to be a residence orchestra at the own East-West International Music Festival in Germany and Turkey.

The East-West Chamber Orchestra include best soloists from Germany, Italy, France, Czech Republic, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Spain, Croatia, UK, USA as well as Armenia, Belarus, Georgia, Ukraine, Russia, Moldova, Israel, Japan, China, Turkey, Australia and many others in order to strengthen the bonds and cultural co-operations between Eastern- and Western Europe and all over the world.

East-West Chamber Orchestra takes part regularly in charity events for children, collecting funds for medical equipment in hospitals and working closely with UNICEF. It was the first orchestra in the history to play by Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople, who admitted the work of the orchestra as Ambassador of Peace.

Patrons of the orchestra include such great names as Sofia Gubaidulina, Evgeny Kissin, Erkki-Sven Tüür, Julian Rachlin, John Axelrod, Mihai Constantinescu among others.

The East-West Chamber Orchestra is an active promoter of contemporary music and new repertoire. Recently, the releases of M. Weinberg all 4 Chamber Symphonies by Naxos collected best critics from all over the world as well as was nominated among others for International Classical Music Awards and Opus Classic. EWCO also committed pieces by renowned composers for world premieres. Their performances were broadcasted by Medici.TV as well as numerous TV channels and radio around the globe.

The orchestra collaborated with best soloists like Paul Badura-Skoda, Fazil Say, David Geringas, Julian Rachlin, Yuri Bashmet, Dmitry Sitkovetsky, Sergey Krylov, Alexander Knyazev, Ksenija Sidorova, Vivian Hagner, Leticia Moreno among many others. In 2021 EWCO also made debut at the Enescu Festival in Bucharest what resulted re-invitation for 2023.

They are also experts in creating new exceptional projects such as for example “The Classical Night in Underground”, when a metro station transforming into a real concert hall with stage, lights, lasers and projection only in couple of hours which became an annual event crossing with fashion, sport, art, ballet on one stage. Also, regular collaboration of the orchestra with winners of World- and Europe- Championships of rhythmic gymnastics is an example of such exclusive activities.

Chief-Conductor and Artistic Director Rostislav Krimer was also founder and Artistic Director of the Yuri Bashmet International Music Festival which he was leading for 15 years, as well as now new East-West International Music Festival. Founding the Orchestra was the natural next step for the highly acclaimed pianist who was for many years a duo partner of legendary Paul Badura-Skoda, worked closely with Krzysztof Penderecki, Maxim Vengerov, Gidon Kremer and Julian Rachlin. He is a Star-Ambassador of 2nd European Games as well as Friend of UNICEF.

Rostislav Krimer and the East-West Chamber Orchestra...deliver exceptionally fine performances of these two works. I was particularly impressed by the quality of string playing in the extremely taxing Second Chamber Symphony, not least the capacity of these performers to create a real sense of mystery in the many passages which Weinberg marks to be played treble pianissimo. © 2021 BBC Music Magazine Read complete review

...I rather like Krimer's way with the music, his slightly reined-in interpretation of the Second Chamber Symphony (1987, based on the Third String Quartet of 1944) emphasising the 'chamber' aspect and finding the music between the notes.

...If you are unfamiliar with the world of Weinberg, this recording would be a great place to begin, but it is a major contribution to the Weinberg discography, to be sought out – with its companion - by any music lover.

Michael Wilkinson. MusicWeb International

"The East-West Chamber Orchestra from Belarus, with its founding conductor Rostislav Krimer, has now also recorded these two symphonies. Since the slow final movement in the second symphony and the two slow movements in the fourth are the focal points, above all a sensitive music-making is called for in these two works. Here it is already apparent that the young orchestra is gaining in stature and convinces with a refined playing. In the fourth symphony, the music is given thoughtful and fresh touches of color by the clarinet solo of Igor Fedorov." © 2021 Pizzicato

The Fourth Chamber Symphony might be Weinberg's last completed piece but I am sure it won't be the end of our Weinberg explorations ...a terrific disc © 2021 Classical Explorer

Das East-West Chamber Orchestra nimmt sich dieser endzeitlichen Preziosen mit dunkel fundiertem Streicherklang auf das Intensivste an. Rostislav Krimer modelliert aus der Partitur Klanglandschaften, die zur schmerzhaften wie heilenden Erinnerung an einen versunkenen Kosmos einladen und dennoch jede politische Wirklichkeit sich anverwandelt überwinden. © 2021 Online Merker

Ludwig van Toronto, January 2022

The 2nd and 4th chamber symphonies, urgently performed here by Rotislav Krimer's East-West Chamber Orchestra of Minsk, judder with nervous energy and frustrated ambition. The second, dated 1987, smokes with anxieties of disintegration. The 4th, from 1992, is damn-near irresistible. Written for string orchestra, clarinet and triangle, it is a klezmer-like half-dance, half-lament, on the collapse of the Soviet Union. © 2022 Ludwig van Toronto

In my review of their first Weinberg release, I said it was just about the best-sounding string orchestra in the Naxos stable. This release reinforces that opinion. January, 2022 WTJU, Ralph Graves

...Rostislav Krimer and the East-West Chamber Orchestra play the music with utter commitment and devotion, while the recorded sound—captured in the Grand Hall of the Belarus State Philharmonic, Minsk, where the young refugee first settled—is warm, transparent, and life-like. © 2020 Fanfare

...Ce disque de Weinberg est le premier jamais enregistré à Minsk, là où il acheva ses études. Sur le plan interprétatif, la comparaison qui s'impose est—encore—avec Gidon Kremer et sa Kremerata Baltica (ECM), mais le résultat est inverse aux enregistrements évoqués précédemment. Cette fois, c'est l'East-West Chamber Orchestra qui adopte une lecture plus raffinée là où la Kremerata Baltica opte pour une interprétation davantage immédiate et moins policée. Kremer capte plus l'attention en première lecture, mais la finesse poétique de l'ensemble biélorusse (composé de musiciens russes, biélorusses, polonais, allemands et des pays baltes pour l'essentiel) est convaincante et pourra être préférée pour des écoutes renouvelées. © 2020 ResMusica.com

...Las dos sinfonías de cámara forman parte de la etapa final de Weinberg, quien las compuso en 1987 y 1990. Ambas son arreglos de cuartetos anteriores, del Segundo cuarteto (1940) la Primera, y del Tercero y Quinto (1945) la Tercera. Fue como si Weinberg reconsiderara la época más dura de su vida, cuando su madre y su hermana fueron asesinadas por los nazis. Muy buena versión. © 2019 Scherzo
